Halloween is usually celebrated by both adults and kids. Some families celebrate by having costume parties and playing special games like bobbing for apples and telling ghost stories. Sometimes children go "trick or treating" - knocking on doors in their trusted neighbourhoods collecting candy. Other times they may attend a community party instead. Parents should use com-

Halloween in our high school

This year, our students have celebrated Halloween by writing horror stories and eating candies and chocolates. A lot of students have participated with wonderful stories, many of them were invented but there were also real stories such us strange dreams and frightening experiences. We thank the participants for sharing their experiences with us and we encourage them to keep on writing!
